With more than 30 years of experience, I have helped clients navigate the complexities of real estate transactions with confidence and clarity. My practice spans a wide range of matters, from small business deals to large commercial properties, including sales, leasing, and complex negotiations. Representing both sellers and buyers, landlords and tenants, I have developed a comprehensive understanding of all sides of the transaction process.

I am committed to helping clients achieve their goals through clear communication, creative problem-solving, and respectful negotiations. While I focus on advocating for my clients' interests, I also work to set realistic expectations and guide them toward practical, achievable outcomes.

Throughout my career, I've been known for my quick wit, practical insight, and ability to connect with people. I take pride in my approachability and my ability to explain even the most complex legal matters in plain, straightforward terms. By staying curious and open to learning, I continuously adapt to new challenges, ensuring my clients receive informed, thoughtful counsel every step of the way.
